21 Years of Shaping Tomorrow

In 2009 the National Transport & Development Conference organised by TRICS® comes of age and celebrates its 21st year. Come and join the celebration!

The conference has a long-standing reputation for the place where ideas in transport and land use planning first emerge. For the last 21 years both professions have benefitted from learning together about all aspects of transport and development planning. 2009 will be no exception with the focus on how we as a profession will be 'Shaping Tomorrow'. We will also be introducing our new interactive conference facility 'Qwizdom' which will give each delegate a voice in the debates and provide a new experience in conference attendance.

We will hear from a broad range of viewpoints – MPs, central government, local authority, academia, consultants and the media – all providing a different perspective and experience of the last 2 decades and providing opinion on how we can shape tomorrow.

As we move towards a General Election we invite different political parties to present their transport and planning manifestos as well as hear about the plans for the London Olympics and the legacy of the Olympics. Regardless of any changes in national policy, the Planning Act, the Community Infrastructure Levy and the development of LTP3 will start to make a real impact on the profession in 2010.

The conference will provide delegates with many opportunities to discuss and learn about these emerging areas through plenary sessions, workshops and question and answer times using 'Qwizdom' - equipping delegates to approach 2010 with confidence.

The Study Tour this year will provide delegates with the opportunity to learn about the development of the 'Legible London' initiative and then attempt to navigate your way around the system on foot!

As well as an inspiring conference we will be having a 21st birthday celebration dinner on the Thursday evening.
