

UK Airport Capacity: Join the Debate

6pm, Wednesday 18th September 2013

Godfrey Mitchell Theatre, Institution of Civil Engineers, One Great George Street, London, SW1

Last year in our TPS member survey, we asked members to give us an indication of their view in terms of aviation and airport capacity. The responses show that views are split, with members selecting answers from taxation and associated changes in demand, to expansion of airports in the south east, and growth in regions.

Following the TPS submission to the Davies Commission, calling for reforms to taxation before any decisions on infrastructure are made, we invite members to an event to discuss their views further and to hear a variety of opinions on the future for UK aviation.

Speakers from a range of perspectives have been invited to contribute, with confirmed speakers including Daniel Moylan, who leads on the aviation policy for the Mayor of London, John Stewart, Chair of HACAN Clearskies and Sir Peter Hall, Professor of Planning and Regeneration at UCL.

Please come along and join the debate!
